

ARLINGTON SEXTET SPRINGS SURPRISE IN HOCKEY GAME

Coach Downes' Team Wins Moral Victory By Holding Melrose High To Close Score — Melrose Scores Only Twice In Upset of the Day—Inter-scholastic Hockey League Fans Thunderstruck At Showing Made By Red and Gray Outfit — Bullock and Gardella Outstanding

The Arlington High hockey team surprised many with a moral upset Saturday when it held a strong Melrose team to two goals although failing to register itself with many chances. The league game was played at the Garden. Spadafora for Melrose managed to convert on two of the few times that Melrose was able to get inside the Arlington blue line which was rare enough considering the strength of the Melrose team.

Charlie Downes had shaken up the Arlington lines making them more nearly of equal strength and probably a little faster. Gardella and Bullock were outstanding for Arlington on the offense with Gardella showing greater improvement on the defense.

First Period
The starting line was Sullivan at left wing, Bullock in the center and Mee on the other wing with Cannell and Lane at the defense posts and Captain "Sarky" Sakolan in the goal. Bullock and Carpenter were tossed in the cooler at the three minute marker for high sticks. Gardella came on at wing. Collins and Greco then substituted at the wings. Gardella and Carpenter were tossed in the coop at the five minute period for roughing. While Gardella was off the ice Spadafora scored in five minutes and eighteen seconds. He shot from the blue line and Sakolan was blind. He was defended by Mee but he could not see the shot. Spadafora scored again at seven minutes and eighteen seconds on a pass out from Carpenter. Gardella was tossed out at eleven minutes for tripping. He was still in the box when the bell rang ending the period.

Second Period
Norberg and Collins started on the wing. Gardella came on at center. Foley of Melrose was ejected for the usual two minutes for unnecessary roughness. Collins and Carpenter joined him a minute later for being too pugilistic. This left Melrose with only three skaters but Arlington failed to score. After the bad boys came back on a new line of Gardella, Mee and Sullivan came on for Arlington. This line carried the game into Melrose territory and had many chances to score but failed to convert.

Third Period
Norberg, Gardella and Collins started this period. A four man offense by the Arlington team for the first few minutes gave Arlington many a chance to score but as before they failed. Bott and Flores were the substituting wings with Gardella at center.

Sullivan and Mee came on again with Bullock at center. They took the game into Melrose territory where it remained for the rest of the battle. The last substitution was Collins, Gardella and Norberg with Bullock on the defense. A five man offense at the Melrose goal was put on by Arlington in the final minute but as before it failed to produce a score and the game ended Melrose 2, Arlington 0.

The Medford-Stonham game was about the most interesting on the Greater Boston Interscholastic hockey bill of fare Saturday afternoon. Medford surprising all the dopsters by a sweet 3 to 2 win over Stonham. Newton High squelched all of Cambridge Latin's hopes by taking them, 4 to 1. Rindge Tech. which has taken it on the chin all season, went down to defeat before the smart Belmont sextet when it received a whitewashing to the tune of 4 to 0.

The summary of the Arlington-Melrose game:

MELROSE HIGH—Foley, Johnson, Swain, rw; Carpenter, Foster, Woodland, c; Spadafora, Binda, De Coste, lw; Thivierge, rd; Chaisson, ld; Steer, g.

ARLINGTON HIGH—Collins, Sullivan, Norberg, lw; Bullock, Greco, Bott, c; Mee, Flores, Gardella, rw; Cannell, Bullock, ld; Lane, rd; Sakolan, g.

Score, Melrose 2. Goals made by Spadafora (unassisted), Spadafora (Carpenter). Referee: Hughes and Kelleher, Timer, McConnell. Time, three 12 minute periods.

To Be Taken At Face Value

When you pick up this newspaper and read the announcements of our local merchants, or those of national advertisers, you need never think to question the sincerity and honesty of their statements.

This reliance on Advertising has been brought about by Advertising, and is one of Advertising's greatest contributions to the satisfaction and ease of modern living.

An advertiser deliberately attempting to deceive takes the quick, short road to ruin. The insincere or extravagant statement may have its brief day. But the greater the attention it attracts, the sooner the public will discover and destroy its deceit.

The cornerstone of successful shopkeeping always has been "keep faith with the public;" give honest values and truthfully represent the merchandise and its service. This principal had to find its expression in Advertising—for Advertising is nothing more than the owner of the store or a factory talking with people in their homes about such things as shoes and soap, radios and rugs, blankets and bloomers.

It pays to read the advertisements. They are first-hand news of what is being invented, fashioned, and perfected in the workshops of the world for your well-being, comfort and convenience.

Gaw Of Arlington Scores Point For N. H. State Frosh

"Chippie" Gaw, Arlington pitching ace whose brilliant performances last summer were the talk of the Twilight baseball fans, sent the puck sizzling into the Bridgton Academy net in a 1900th and tumble game between New Hampshire State freshmen and Bridgton Academy at Durham, N. H., last Saturday. The score made by the Arlington youth was one of the two tallied by the New Hampshire State Boys. Bridgton won 5 to 2, however on soft ice.

Gaw was one of the wingmen on the New Hampshire State team. The Granite State yearlings opened the scoring in the middle of the first period with two successive shots for counts, but the Bridgton sextet got down to business in the second period, scored four goals, and dominated the play for the remainder of the game. Martin, of Bridgton, was carried off the ice in the third period with a sprained ankle.

Local Athlete Scores But State Loses

Snow, a former Arlington High athlete scored the only point for Massachusetts State college in the hockey game which New Hampshire State varsity won by the score of 2 to 1 at Amherst last Saturday afternoon.

The Arlington youth, playing center, scored the tally for the Massachusetts boys in the second period, sending the disk straight past Condon, in the New Hampshire string.

The White Mountain boys were away to a one-goal lead in the first period when Bachelier's shot found an unprotected corner of the net and midway at the second period the Wildcats scored again, with White propelling the disk.

Two minutes later Snow tallied for State.

Switchboard Flash Sends Police On Call

A light flashing on the switchboard at the Arlington telephone exchange sent two police scout cars to the R. W. LeBaron electrical store at 608 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington when it was believed a fire might be underway or a burglary was being committed early yesterday morning. The light which was seen to flash on the switchboard indicated that the telephone receiver in the LeBaron store had been removed. The telephone supervisor immediately notified police headquarters and scout cars were quickly on the scene. When they arrived at the store they found everything in good order, however.

ARLINGTON SELECTMEN RECEIVE RESOLUTIONS STRESSING ECONOMY

Expressing fear that many members of the Legislature will not vote to reduce governmental expenditures to a point reflecting the reduced incomes of their constituents, the executive committee of the National Economy League, Massachusetts Branch, has adopted a resolution calling upon League members and all citizens to make known their demands for economy to State senators and representatives by every means in their power. A copy of the resolution has been sent to the Arlington Selectmen.

In addition, the executive committee of the National Economy League adopted two further resolutions, one calling for suspension of expenditures on new State highways in order that such expenditures may be diverted to support of highway maintenance and traffic police, ordinarily borne by cities and towns, while the other endorsed the report of Senator Samuel H. Wragg on municipal economies in principal although expressing belief that further economies than those recommended would probably be necessary.

The first resolution adopted read as follows:

"Whereas Federal, State and local governments are spending approximately one third of the income of residents and business concerns of Massachusetts, and

"Whereas the revenue from Massachusetts individual income taxes which is returned to the cities and towns, amounting to $22,554,000 in 1931, and $17,757,000 in 1932, is estimated by Tax Commissioner Long at $12,000,000 for 1933; thus imposing an extra burden on the taxpayers of every municipality in addition to their present burdens, among which is included the tax always assessed by the State upon cities and towns for the purpose of balancing the State budget and known as the State tax, and

"Whereas the combined revenue for Massachusetts corporation taxes and inheritance taxes which is expended for State purposes, amounting to $24,130,000 in 1931 and $18,482,000 in 1932, is estimated at $13,000,000 in 1933, thus indicating a greatly increased State tax unless expenditures of the State government are reduced, and

"Whereas the General Court of the Commonwealth now in session is solely responsible for determining what the expenditures of the State government shall be for the ensuing year, and

"Whereas there is reason to fear that many members of the General Court will not vote to reduce expenditures to an extent which will adequately reflect the greatly reduced incomes of their constituents unless aroused to action, and local branches who have signified their demand for the elimination of all wasteful and unjustifiable governmental expenditures and feel that the united desires of these voters who have joined the League must be immediately and forcefully impressed upon their representatives in the General Court,

"Whereas the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Branch of the National Economy League is specifically authorized to represent over 67,000 men and women voters organized in 144

"Be it resolved that the Executive Committee of the National Economy League urges all branches and members of the League to make their demands for adequate economy known to their respective State senators and representatives by every means in their power, such as direct correspondence, formal resolutions, petitions and the like, and further to arouse the public at large by appeal for action from local taxpayers' associations and other civic organizations of men and women as well as by employment of such means of publicity as are at their command, and further

"Be it resolved that the Secretary be instructed to mail copies of this resolution forthwith to His Excellency, the Governor of Massachusetts, and to each and every member of the General Court, and further

"Be it resolved that the Secretary be instructed to mail a copy of this resolution to the mayor of every city and to the chairman of the Board of Selectmen in every town in the Commonwealth, in the hope that formal action may be taken in all municipalities, instructing their representatives in the General Court to favor rigid economy in State expenditure."

The second resolution, pertaining to specific economies in State highway construction, reads as follows:

"Voted: That the National Economy League, Massachusetts Branch, believes that expenditures on new State highways should be suspended so far as possible during this emergency in order that as much as possible of the State Highway Fund may be devoted to expenditures on highway maintenance and traffic police ordinarily borne by cities, towns and counties, to the end that sums thus saved in highway construction may be used to reduce the burden of the cost of local government."

During the meeting of the executive committee, which was held at the National Economy League State Headquarters, 49 Federal street, Boston, and at which Carl P. Dennett, State chairman of the League presided, it was pointed out that the greatly increased membership of the League's State branch—now nearing a total of 70,000—made necessary the enlargement of the executive committee in order to cope with the constantly growing work of the organization.

Twenty-three new members for the executive committee were then nominated and elected to this committee, making a total number of 34 persons on the committee in question.

Local Youth Stops New Prep

Aided by the fine work of Haskell, former Arlington High star, Browne & Nichols won a surprising 5 to 0 victory over the highly-touted New Prep team of Cambridge last Saturday morning.

The game was practically "all Conant" with Roger Conant scoring 3 goals while his brother, Archie, scored 2 for Browne & Nichols.

Playing a brilliant game in the net, Haskell prevented the New Prep sextet from shooting the puck into the cage on several occasions. Any scoring attack which the usually smart New Prep team might have anticipated was surprisingly stopped by the fine work of Goalie Haskell.

Art Lane Scores For Princeton

Apparently slowing up a bit after the several penalties which were slapped on him a week ago, Art Lane, pride of Arlington High School fans and now of Princeton managed to score but one point for the Tigers in the game played against Harvard University at the Boston Garden last Saturday night. Harvard won 5 to 4 in this second game of the all-important series with Princeton.

The tally came in the second period when Lane, with the assistance of Kammer, sent a hot shot past the Harvard goalie. Everett, another Arlington youth, played against Lane as one of the Harvard spares. The game was a seesaw affair in which both teams lead one another by one point, back and forth, until Harvard finally scored the deciding tally.

Lane threatened to score on several occasions but hisizzling shots were stopped brilliantly.

Arlington Athlete Helps New Hampton Prep Tie Opponents

One of Arlington High's products, tagged Muloon, helped New Hampton Prep tie the Lakeport Hockey club at New Hampton, N. H. last Saturday. The score was 1 to 1 when the fastest game ever seen on the New Hampton ice was brought to a close.

The feature of the game was the goal-tending of the Lakeport goalie who stopped many fast shots which were propelled at a lightning rate toward his cage. Muloon played at right wing and was in the line-up from the start.

LAUGHTER

Laughter sounds happy, makes one feel better and yet, for the moment, all is well, but one can't forget the unrecurrent of feeling, woes and strife.

That hold the most important place in this life.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you
Weep and you weep alone."

Never were truer words penned, and it is well—
For in consideration of this; we tell
Jokes, and smile often, though if the truth were known,
'Twould be p'raps less jokes and more tears enjoyed alone.

Association is kind—we hide our true feeling.
And in pleasant company feel our wounds healing.

Life is ever grim, and laughter was giv'n man
To help but not cure, reality only can.

George W. Stafford, 37 years old, of 148 Thesda street, Arlington is in a serious condition at the Symmes Arlington hospital as the result of a most peculiar accident. He was run over by his own automobile while at work on it.

Yesterday morning, Supervisor Withrow of the Symmes hospital notified the Arlington police of the accident and an investigation is being conducted. According to the Supervisor, the victim of the accident was admitted to the hospital Saturday night. He was treated for injuries to his left leg and face and for a possible fracture of the skull and left shoulder. In an effort to determine whether or not Mr. Stafford's skull was fractured, X-ray pictures were taken at the hospital yesterday afternoon.

The victim told hospital officials that he received his injuries while working on his automobile in his own yard. He was under the car, which had been jacked up, when the brakes were suddenly released and the car rolled backwards. Before he could get out of the way, the automobile had run over him.

At the hospital last night it was stated that his condition was serious but he had not been placed on the danger list. The accident is one of the most extraordinary ever recorded in Arlington.

THOMAS P. FEENEY, SUPT. OF MAILS, BOSTON P. O. TELLS OF POSTAL SERVICE

Thomas P. Feeney of 154 Washington street, Medford, was the speaker at the meeting on Friday evening at the meeting of the Medford Chapter of the Unitarian Laymen's League which was held in the Parish house of the church.

Mr. Feeney's subject, "The Postal Service" is one on which he is well qualified to speak, he being at present Superintendent of Mails at the Boston Post Office. Mr. Feeney was appointed substitute, clerk at the Boston Post office in 1897. He was made foreman of delivery in 1916, superintendent of Division of Registry of Mails in 1920, Superintendent of Delivery in 1920 and to his present position in 1931.

During his period of service he has served as president of the Post Office Clerks' association, vice president of the National association of Post Office clerks and vice president of the Supervisors' association.

This wide experience has made Mr. Feeney an authority on his king, Cyrus, and whose performance is described in the words chiseled in granite over the main entrance of the New York Post Office: "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

Among the early postal systems are those of France which dates from 1464 and the Prussian Post Office established in 1646. In England the system of posts was maintained in the reign of Henry 8th. However, we are principally concerned with the United States Post Service which is greater than that of any European country, the number of letters delivered each year in the United States being from twelve to fifteen billion, greater than that of Great Britain, Germany, France and Russia combined.

We handle one third of the total Post Office business of the civilized nations.

Earliest Post Office
The earliest record of a Post Office in America appears in the General Court of Massachusetts in 1639. Nearly 20 years later, the postal service was established in Virginia and in 1672 a monthly post-between New York and Boston was put into operation. The business gradually developed until finally in 1707, the control of England purchased the colonial service as a branch of the Post Office in London until 1775.

Benjamin Franklin who was Deputy Postmaster General for the colonies from 1753 to 1774 was intimately associated with the development of the service. Franklin was removed from office in 1774 because he had earned the English Government's displeasure by signing the petition for the removal of Governor Hutchinson of Massachusetts. However, by that time, the colonies had organized an inter-colonial service of their own although during the Revolutionary War, there was much disruption in the service, and it was not again on a satisfactory basis until 1794, since which time, the United States Post Office has developed with the progress of the country. System came in 1847 when the Government began to use adhesive postage stamps. Eight years later stamped envelopes were used and postal cards were first issued on May 1, 1873.

In the early days and up to 1863, all mail had to be called for at the Post Office but in that year, free delivery service was started on a small scale and in 1865 the service was extended to all cities with a population of 50,000 or more. By degrees this free delivery service has been extended until now about half the population of this country is thus served. It now exists in all cities having a population of 10,000 or more as well as to certain small towns if they show annual receipts exceeding $10,000.

Rural Free Delivery
On October 1, 1896, the service known as Rural Free Delivery was established, and this service has had a great and marvelous growth. It was established primarily as an aid to the farmers and others residing in rural districts and its maintenance meant a large deficit in the postal service each year, a portion of which was taken up some years later by the establishment of the Parcel Post.

Money Order System
The Money Order System was established in 1864. This is where the sender deposits money with the Postmaster for a small fee, receives in exchange an order on the Postmaster of the place in which the money is to be paid. This is one of the safest methods of sending remittances by mail as identification is required of the payee before payment is made. Included in this system is the International Money Order Service which enables one to make remittances to many foreign countries.

Special Delivery Service
In 1865, the Special Delivery Service was established and this service means that a letter on which there is a special delivery stamp receives immediate delivery at the office of address, and its main usefulness is that it secures delivery after the regular trips of the letter carriers.

Parcel Post System
On January 1, 1913, the Parcel Post System, now so universally in use, was established, and has grown to enormous proportions.

Bear in mind that at this time, we had a vast network of rural delivery routes spread over the entire country. These rural carriers were mounted and were delivering mainly letters and newspapers and by the establishment of a parcel post system, we were able to exchange farm products and merchandise with the farmers without much increased cost for equipment in the rural districts. Of course, the taking over of this business in the larger cities meant crowded quarters and almost overnight without any additional equipment or space, the Post Office Department started in the express and freight business. It has proved a boom to those who do their shopping by mail as well as to business men in sending their merchandise to out of town customers. The charges have been kept low and serve every section of the country. In order to do this business efficiently, it was necessary for us to purchase thousands of motor trucks and in this connection, it is interesting to note that the Post Office Department operates these trucks every day of the year regardless of the type of weather and regardless of the type of territory in which Post Offices are located.

We have hundreds of cases where private express companies and merchants who own their own delivery fleets cannot or will not on account of inclement weather and bad roads operate their trucks, in which case, without warning, thousands of packages, usually delivered by express or by private delivery companies, are thrown into the Post Office overnight and never has Uncle Sam failed to function.

A few years ago when there was an express strike in New York the entire express output of that city was placed in the mails and the Post Office Department had to cope with the situation, and make their deliveries with but little delay.

It sometimes seems to me that when these unusual things take place, the public is not sufficiently informed of the problems of their Post Office Department, and when they are solved by men who have given their life to the business, sufficient notice is not taken of it.

Registry
In 1855, the registration of letters was instituted, one of the measures adopted for the greatest safety of mail matter. This system also protects the sender against damage, loss and rifling in the mails. I was Superintendent of Registry for ten years, and while the amount of the values handled in a Registry Division of a large Post Office, is confidential, I know that even our financial leaders have no adequate understanding of this.

is kept. Take in your own City of Medford. Your Superintendent, Mr. Osthus, is given so many clerks to operate that office. The number of clerks allowed him is based on the hours on which his office is open, the number of window transactions, sales of stamps, registering of letters, issuing and paying of money orders, etc., the number of pieces of outgoing mail that is daily assorted at the Medford office, the number of incoming pieces that must be sorted by clerks and there are standards that clerks and carriers must maintain on the separation of this mail.

If Mr. Osthus has an increase in business and asks for additional help, he must prove his case. If he asks for additional assistance and he apparently makes a case, a survey is made at his office and if it develops from that survey, made by men of experience in the Post Office that Mr. Osthus needs more of same, the Postmaster grants the request, but if the report of Survey Board shows that Mr. Osthus asked for help when in fact he did not need it, it is not only not allowed but Mr. Osthus' judgment is questioned and his record is not as clean as it was before. By this system, supervisors in charge of large units and large stations are very careful of the expenditures as they are accountable for every hour of expense that they put on the Government.

I say that all these facts are not generally understood by the public or we would not hear so many statements about waste and extravagance by people whose own business is not checked as closely or run as economically as the Postal Service, and while I am on this subject, I think it only fair to call your attention to the fact that during all these years up to last July, when the price of every commodity was raised, when your transportation lines went from 5 to 10 cents, 100 per cent increase, when your telephone rates went up, and in fact, everything you bought and used went up, the only commodity that remained at the same price and the same old service was the 2c stamp notwithstanding that we in the Postal Service have to go out into the open market and buy our ink and our paper and make leases with increased value of real estate, and we were compelled to do business at the same price. Of course, there was a deficit but the deficit was caused principally by the carrying of communications for all other Departments, the Internal Revenue, Navy Department, War Department free, and that the carriers do census work for the Census Bureau, sell Liberty Bonds, and other services, which we certainly cannot absorb without expense.

In order that you may have some understanding of some of the problems of a Superintendent in your own district and some of the things that he has to contend with, I will explain to you the methods and regulations by which delivery service is extended. I have frequently heard a Superintendent or Postmaster criticized because a gentleman had bought or built a house on a street that was not fully developed. He requests that he get carrier delivery service. Now the methods of extending delivery is laid down in the Postal Laws and Regulations and no Superintendent nor Postmaster can grant extension of delivery except under those regulations. They are essentially as follows: the street for which delivery is asked shall be 50 per cent developed, that is, 50 per cent of the house lots must be built upon and occupied, the street must be in good safe condition and must have sidewalks and the houses must be numbered, also have street lights and street signs.

Now a man will be refused carrier delivery because there are 20 households on the street and only three houses built. He immediately becomes angry, states he is a citizen and taxpayer and is entitled to carrier delivery but he is not entitled to that under the Regulations and the regulations in the main are wise. If there were not restrictions, what is there to prevent a man from buying a lot on a hilltop without roads or near neighbors and the man because he is a taxpayer thinks he should get carrier delivery. Remember that if it were not for these restrictions, the Postal Service expense would be tremendous and remember that the expense of maintaining the postal service comes out of the citizens of this country and if it does not come from adequate postal rates, it will have to come from the tax levy, and you should remember in requesting additional mail service that it cannot be provided without expense and that when some selfish individual wants a letter box placed at a certain corner for his convenience or for his wife's convenience, that he is not a good citizen, and that we cannot put these boxes in unless they can be justified by a sufficient number of people being accommodated by that particular box. When even an additional letter box is placed on the street, the first cost is the essential feature but the cost of collecting several times a day as well as at night, and these numbers multiplied by hundreds and thousands, easily runs into many more motor vehicles, all of which add to the expense.

The people of America must get out of their mind the idea of asking for service and accommodation on the grounds that it does not cost them anything. It is our job and the job of the Postmaster and his supervisors to see that the Department's policy is carried out.

Now just a word about the personnel of the Boston office. These men are your neighbors, they secured their positions after passing a competitive civil service examination. For years they work undesirable tours as the mail service is essentially an evening and night business. These men belong to your associations and lodges. They are your neighbors and I submit that as a class, they cannot be surpassed. They are to the forefront on every occasion. During the last drive for the unemployed, the employees of the Boston district contributed $97,000, which was disbursed pro rata to the various cities and towns in which the employees resided. They are liberal, they pay their bills, and they are an asset to the community, and no harder working or honest set of employees exist in any community.

The Postal Service, gentlemen, has been my life work. The value of this service to the public cannot be gauged in money.

Emerson said that he looked upon the Post office as a "first measure of civilization. We, who are servants of the people, feel that, despite our occasional shortcomings, we bring happiness to the people, through unflinching communication; we assume no false pride in our accomplishments, but if we can do one thing to make our service more acceptable, we will do it."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Believing that Hart, a government agent, has been killed by a dope gang of which her father is a member, Julie Arnold goes to Captain Hawkes for help. While she is discussing the situation, Hart returns and tells her he escaped. Julie, fearful that her father's life is in danger, asks that he be arrested as a means of saving him from the gang. She and Hart go to the Arnold home, and there they learn that Mr. Arnold has been taken to the Eastland Hospital by Dr. Steiner, a member of the ring in high position. They hasten to the hospital.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
At the hospital Julie and Hart were informed that Mr. Arnold was in the operating room and that they would have to wait.

"What's the operation for?" Hart inquired.

"Acute appendicitis,"

"Can't we go up?"

"You'll have to see the doctor about that."

"Who's the doctor?"

"Dr. Steiner. You may wait over there if you like." The nurse pointed to a seat in the reception room.

As they waited, the nurse was called to the telephone switchboard. While her back was turned, Julie and Julie stole out of the room and up the stairway leading to the operating room. As they reached the elevator stopped at the 3rd floor, Julie and Hart hurriedly ran to conceal themselves in a vacant room before Henderson stepped out of the elevator and walked toward the operating room. As he reached the door opened and Edwards, the nurse, wheeled the patient out. Dr. Steiner followed close behind.

"This is a series of reports made by members of Mr. X's gang," said Hart. (Posed by Clarence Burton, Willard Robertson and Jack Holt.)

As he paused to remove his rubber gloves, Henderson inquired, "All right, Doctor?"

Steiner nodded. "Yes, he's all right."

They walked on, and Hart and Julie came out into the corridor and made for the room into which the nurse had taken the patient.

"When would it be possible for me to speak to Mr. Arnold?" Hart inquired in a low tone.

Edwards made no reply, but took the sheet that covered Arnold's body and drew it over his head, indicating that the man was dead.

Hart led Julie from the hospital and took her to a hotel where he obtained a room for her.

After the funeral, Hart said, "I couldn't save your father's life, Julie, but maybe I can even things up." He went to the telephone and called Hawkes.

"Yes, Julie," he buried this morning. I have Miss Arnold up here at the hotel. She's not staying at home any more—Yes, I'll see you this evening. Goodbye."

As he replaced the receiver, Hart turned to Julie. "I've got to leave you now for a while, but I want you to promise me that you won't leave this room, not for anyone or anything. Have your meals served up here and, if you want anything, send out and get it, but stay here. You understand, Julie?"

A few hours later, Hart entered the office of Captain Hawkes.

"We've been waiting for you," said Hawkes.

"I was delayed. Had a little burglary to do."

Hart placed a package on the desk and unwrapped it. Several cylinder phonograph records were revealed. He put one on a machine standing on Hawkes' desk and started the mechanism.

"Dillon reporting—Have Henderson get in touch with me regarding shipments tomorrow. Not using planes for shipments south—handling others in regular way. Cook reports our headquarters being watched—laying low until further orders. That's all."

The three men glanced at one another as there was a pause in the record.

"Johnson reporting. The freighter Sorrento leaves Antwerp on the 18th, due on the 21st. Same as the charge." After a brief pause, another message was given. "Henderson reporting. We've taken care of Arnold. The stuff brought in last night has been planted okay. You'll hear no more from Quinn."

"Quinn! That's me! I'm supposed to be drowned," Hart grinned.

"Look here, Jack, what the—?" Hart interrupted Hawkes. "Wait, there's more coming."

"Edwards reporting. Something has gone wrong. Quinn is not out of the way. He came to the hospital today with the Arnold girl, shortly after the operation. Suggest you get in touch with Henderson at once."

The record had reached the end. "I guess that's all for today," Hart was exultant as he stopped the phonograph. "What you've just heard, gentlemen, is a series of reports made by members of Mr. X's gang."

"To Mr. X," Hawkes inquired.

"To Dr. August Steiner, whose office I took the liberty of burglarizing a little while ago."

"Then Steiner must be this X guy."

"I wonder."

Gorman, who had been an interested listener, suggested, "The best way to find out is to grab Steiner right away."

"For what?" Hawkes asked. "For having a wax record in his office? I'm afraid we haven't got enough on him."

"Yes, we have," Hart grimly declared, "or we will have, if we work quickly."

"What can we arrest him for?" Hawkes inquired.

"For murder! Cold-blooded murder on the operating table."

"What are you saying?"

"Steiner killed Arnold, and I'm going to prove it."

"How?"

"By going to the cemetery where Arnold is buried, exhuming the body gloves, Henderson inquired, "All right, Doctor?"

Steiner nodded. "Yes, he's all right."

They walked on, and Hart and Julie came out into the corridor and made for the room into which the nurse had taken the patient.

Gorman, who had been an interested listener, suggested, "The best way to find out is to grab Steiner right away."

"For what?" Hawkes asked. "For having a wax record in his office? I'm afraid we haven't got enough on him."

"Yes, we have," Hart grimly declared, "or we will have, if we work quickly."

"What can we arrest him for?" Hawkes inquired.

"For murder! Cold-blooded murder on the operating table."

"What are you saying?"

"Steiner killed Arnold, and I'm going to prove it."

"How?"

"By going to the cemetery where Arnold is buried, exhuming the body gloves, Henderson inquired, "All right, Doctor?"

Steiner nodded. "Yes, he's all right."

They walked on, and Hart and Julie came out into the corridor and made for the room into which the nurse had taken the patient.

"When would it be possible for me to speak to Mr. Arnold?" Hart inquired in a low tone.

Edwards made no reply, but took the sheet that covered Arnold's body and drew it over his head, indicating that the man was dead.

Hart led Julie from the hospital and took her to a hotel where he obtained a room for her.

After the funeral, Hart said, "I couldn't save your father's life, Julie, but maybe I can even things up." He went to the telephone and called Hawkes.

"Yes, Julie," he buried this morning. I have Miss Arnold up here at the hotel. She's not staying at home any more—Yes, I'll see you this evening. Goodbye."

As he replaced the receiver, Hart turned to Julie. "I've got to leave you now for a while, but I want you

A New Oral Antiseptic By Makers Of Vicks VapoRub Introduces New Economy

A quality antiseptic mouthwash and gargle—at less than half the usual price—is doubly welcome now. Especially to the millions who find such a product a daily necessity—for halitosis (bad breath), oral hygiene, and other antiseptic uses.

The New Vicks Vaseline Antiseptic—by the makers of Vicks VapoRub—brings this unique advantage. Born in a depression year, it is priced accordingly. Aided by record low prices on raw materials—and Vicks facilities for mass production—Vicks Chemists have produced a large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—that is priced regularly at only 35c.

The name, of course, guarantees high quality. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce... and they were aided by bacteriologists and pharmacologists of their 16 allied organizations, here and abroad. Mild enough to use daily with perfect safety, Vicks Antiseptic is strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can and should do.

Unusual Trial Offer

Of course, the only real proof of its quality—and its economy—is in actual use. To furnish this proof, five million bottles of a special trial size are being supplied drugists everywhere at less than cost of manufacture. A 75c value, these trial packages are priced at only 10c—while the supply lasts.

ETHERIZED GIRL floats in air

ILLUSION: This very old illusion was invented by Indian fakirs. The secret was unearthed in 1949 by the great magician, Robert-Houdin. At that time, ether had just been discovered, and little was known about it. Houdin claimed that he had discovered that this new anesthetic could make people light as air. To prove it, he caused the subject to rise into the air and float apparently suspended. He passed a hoop around the body to show there were no wires or supports.

EXPLANATION: There are many, many explanations for this old trick. One is that the girl wears a concealed harness, which ends in a socket between her shoulder blades. This is attached to a piston below the stage. The piston is pushed up from below, causing her to rise in the air. The piston is invisible, because it is covered with mirrors which reflect surrounding draperies, similar to the background. The magician can pass the hoop over her body because it is cut in one place. It can be pulled apart for a second when it passes the piston.

NO TRICKS... JUST COSTLIER TOBACCOS
IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

It's fun to be fooled... it's more fun to KNOW

Another "magic show" is cigarette advertising. One of its greatest tricks is the illusion that cigarettes can be made miraculously "MILD" through manufacturing methods. THE EXPLANATION: All popular cigarettes today are made in modern sanitary factories with up-to-date machinery. All are heat treated—some more intensively than others, because raw, inferior tobaccos require more intensive treatment than choice, ripe tobaccos.

The real difference comes in the tobaccos that are used. The better the tobacco, the milder it is. It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. This is why Camels are so mild. This is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made. It's the secret of Camels' rich "bouquet"... their cool flavor... their non-irritating mildness. All the natural, ripe goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh for you by the famous air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it.

League Calls Upon Citizens To Demand Economy In State

Expressing fear that many members of the Legislature will not vote to reduce governmental expenditures to a point reflecting the reduced incomes of their constituents, the executive committee of the National Economy League, Massachusetts Branch, adopted a resolution calling upon League members and all citizens to make known their demands for economy to State senators and representatives by every means in their power.

In addition, the executive committee of the National Economy League adopted two further resolutions, one calling for suspension of expenditures on new State highways in order that such expenditures may be diverted to support of highway maintenance and traffic police, ordinarily borne by cities and towns, while the other endorsed the report of Senator Samuel H. Wragg on municipal economies in principal although expressing belief that further economies than those recommended would probably be necessary.

The first resolution adopted read as follows: "Whereas Federal, State and local governments are spending approximately one third of the income of residents and business concerns of Massachusetts, and whereas the revenue from Massachusetts individual income taxes which is returned to the cities and towns, amounting to $22,554,000 in 1931, and $17,757,000 in 1932, is estimated by Tax Commissioner Long at $12,000,000, for 1933; thus imposing an extra burden on the taxpayers of every municipality in addition to their present burdens, among which is included the tax always assessed by the State upon cities and towns for the purpose of balancing the State budget and known as the State tax, and whereas the combined revenue for Massachusetts corporation taxes and inheritance taxes which is expended for State purposes, amounting to $24,120,000 in 1931 and $18,492,000 in 1932, is estimated at $13,000,000 in 1933, thus indicating a greatly increased State tax unless expenditures of the State government are reduced, and the Commonwealth now in session is solely responsible for determining what the expenditures of the State government shall be for the ensuing year, and "Whereas there is reason to fear that many members of the General Court will not vote to reduce expenditures to an extent which will adequately reflect the greatly reduced incomes of their constituents unless aroused to action, and

"Whereas the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Branch of the National Economy League is specifically authorized to represent over 67,000 men and women voters organized in 144 local branches who have signified their demand for the elimination of all wasteful and unjustifiable governmental expenditures and feels that the united desires of these voters who have joined the League must be immediately and forcefully impressed upon their representatives in the General Court.

"Be it resolved that the Executive Committee of the National Economy League urges all branches and members of the League to make their demands for adequate economy known to their respective State senators and representatives by every means in their power, such as direct correspondence, formal resolutions, petitions and the like, and further to arouse the public at large by appeal for action from local taxpayers' associations and other civic organizations of men and women as well as by employment of such means of publicity as are at their command, and further

"Be it resolved that the Secretary be instructed to mail copies of this resolution forthwith to His Excellency, the Governor of Massachusetts, and to each and every member of the General Court, and further

"Be it resolved that the Secretary be instructed to mail a copy of this resolution to the mayor of every city and to the chairman of the Board of Selectmen in every town in the Commonwealth, in the hope that formal action may be taken in all municipalities, instructing their representatives in the General Court to favor rigid economy in State expenditure."

Memories Of Chester I. Campbell

by Tee-Em-Sec

It was our good fortune to have known Chester I. Campbell, who died suddenly while doing a good deed in addressing a group of young men at Belmont. He was one of the busiest men we have known, both in his own work and as a politician of constructive ability.

During the war, while employed as a $1 a year man, for the government in charge of the exhibitions of War trophies which were held all over the country, he went to California with his staff and opened an exhibition in a fenced-in lot on Market street, near the Hotel Whitcomb, in San Francisco.

At the time we happened to be the publicity director for the "Commission for Relief in France and Belgium". Mrs. A. B. Sprickles was the president and supporter of this organization, which sent over $100,000 to France through pennies collected in milk bottles. The collections extended over the entire Pacific coast. This collection of pennies was only one of the activities covered by the Commission.

As in the case with many of us, we yearned to see someone from our old home town of Boston, and called upon Mr. Campbell, whom we knew in Boston. When we told him of our work and our desire to further its purpose, he allowed us to take photos of the exhibits, which were printed on postal cards and sold within the grounds at a special booth. Through his generosity, a substantial sum was realized. Representatives of the Commission went to Los Angeles with the exhibit and also to Chicago where the concession was sold for a goodly sum. While in San Francisco, Mrs. Sprickles tendered a dinner at her

Want Rimmer To Have Charge Of Freight On Two Railroads

Permission to appoint John W. Rimmer General Freight Traffic Manager of the Boston and Maine and Maine Central railroads will be sought today from the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was announced by President E. S. French Rimmer is at present Freight Traffic Manager of the Boston and Maine Railroad. The Commission's permission is necessary for a person to hold such a position with more than one railroad.

The promotion, it was stated, will, if approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, place general supervision of all freight traffic matters of the two railroads under Rimmer's direction. It is in line with similar changes already made in other departments of the two roads enabling a closer cooperation with resultant economies and added efficiency. It will make no change, it was stated, in the policy of either railroad, the freight traffic departments of both continuing to operate as separate organizations. Louis Snow will continue as Freight Traffic Manager of the Maine Central.

Rimmer, who entered the offices of the Boston and Maine 25 years ago as an office boy following graduation from Malden High school, has successively held the positions of clerk, secretary to the freight traffic manager, traveling freight agent, assistant general freight agent, assistant to the vice president, assistant freight traffic manager, and freight manager. His home is at 47 Suffolk avenue, Swampscott.

Bill Passed By House Makes Stealing Of Auto Rides A Crime

A bill making it a criminal offense to steal rides on street cars, buses, trucks and other motor vehicles was passed yesterday by a vote of 49 to 25 in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. The bill was based on the recommendations of the Boston Elevated trustees.

An amendment offered by Representative Lane of Lawrence to exempt those riding on trucks and other motor vehicles was defeated by a voice vote.

The House recommitted to the Committee on Legal Affairs the bill restoring to district attorneys certain powers regarding the disposition of complaints or indictments for violation of the liquor laws.

THE LATIN AMERICAN FUTURE

In concluding an article summarizing Latin American trade in 1932, Wallace Thompson, editor of Ingenieria Internacional, says: "On the whole, the Latin American situation, with its limited number of unfavorable factors and its many sound reasons for optimism, promises . . . as sure a future for that great new region as it has ever offered . . ."

Latin American commerce, particularly with the United States, is steadily more effectively than that of any other regional group. This trend will show additional improvement when the figures for 1932 are completed, according to Mr. Thompson.

Efforts to solve the principal difficulty in our trade with Latin America, that is, the exchange and debt situation, have been started. As Mr. Thompson observes, if even a partial solution is achieved, it will result in an immediate improvement in business, with the United States in a particular good export position. It will afford a growing market for thousands of American workmen who are now seeking jobs.

American citizens are tremendously interested in helping Latin America.

THE SILVER LINING

One of the real problems of 1933 will be the rehabilitation of silver.

Movements toward that end have been started. The foremost economists of the world point out that so long as silver prices are at the present low figure, general world recovery is impossible. Cheap silver is a paralyzed drag to trade.

The re-birth of silver mining in this country would mean the employment of thousands of men, and put millions of dollars of new money in circulation.

"SHARE THE WORK" AND DO IT NOW

The two outstanding public men in the United States are earnest believers in the "Share-the-Work" movement. According to President Hoover, "This movement affords one of the most practicable methods of speedily relieving the present distressing unemployment situation and should have the active cooperation of every employer and employee."

According to President-elect Roosevelt, "It is not enough to get the big nationwide industrial organizations to put the 'Share-the-Work' plan into operation; it is equally important to get the smaller corporations and smaller employers in every community to put work-sharing into their individual plants and businesses."

As this unanimity of opinion shows, "Share-the-Work" is a matter that goes beyond politics and party, and touches a vital problem of the moment. It is essential to the future of the country that what work there is to be so dispersed as to afford a living to the largest possible number of workers. "Share-the-Work" is a powerful weapon with which to overcome unemployment.

It is especially noteworthy that both the President and the President-elect accentuate the need for smaller businesses following the lead of the larger ones. That is essential to the success of the movement. The bulk of the unemployment in this country is provided by comparatively small industries, and their influence will be the determining one in working out any plan of this kind.

Share-the-Work—and do it now!

Forcing entrance into the office of the Kelly Coal company on Forest street place, Arlington, early this morning, burglars ransacked the office and broke open one of the heavy safes in their quest for money.

Children Make
Merry In Ballroom
Of Medford Armory

On Friday at the first in a series of children's dancing parties by Mrs. Hedvig Koch, the white and gold ballroom of the Medford Armory was gay with festivities. Attractive palms and flowers artistically placed about the ballroom, lent an air of grace. Soft strains of music filled the room, and balloons, swaying this way and that, gave a touch of vivid color to the scene.

By 4 o'clock, more than 100 children who had scrubbed until they fairly shone, were assembled on the ballroom floor, the girls in dainty party dresses, and the boys in dark blue suits. Under the skillful guidance of Mrs. Koch and her able assistants, the children learned to curtsy and bow with surprising ease. And so the dancing party was formally opened with these little people, whose ages ranged from two to eleven years, were presented to the mothers in the receiving line. Those receiving included Mrs. J. Stevens Kadesch, Mrs. John Scates, Mrs. Lawrence Moore, Mrs. Thomas Hoover, Mrs. William Locke, Mrs. Albert Morrissey (sister of Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam) and Mrs. Gorham Whitney.

A special feature of the afternoon was the "Lollipop Exchange Dance". Mrs. Koch's unique substitute for the elimination dance. Two very courageous fathers, Edward Siegel and Professor White beveled their way to the center of the floor after this contest to announce the winners and to award the prizes. The prizes were won by Master John Scates, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scates, of West Medford, and little Miss Fern Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Blair of Medford.

There were simple lessons in keeping time to the music, rhythmic games and dances, a grand march, and not the least of importance, refreshments that tasted ever and ever so good. The "Dads" and Mothers, and there were many of them present, were invited to dance the good night waltz.

The young ladies in evening gowns who officiated as assistants and ushers have all attended Mrs. Koch's Camp Vebynin in New Hampshire. They comprised Miss Jean Davis, Miss Augusta Crosby, and Miss Doris Locke of Medford; Miss Laura Roberts of Belmont; Miss Marion Speers and Miss June Gustin of Somerville.

Miss Abby Blanchard in a charming gown of purple was at the piano. Miss Blanchard is well known in Medford's musical circles. Miss Eleanor Allen and Edward Hatch played the drums. A colored maid, Mrs. Alice Webb of Medford, assisted the children with their wraps in the cloakroom.

Mrs. Koch was in a beautiful gown of blue with slippers to match. She is formerly of Tulsa Oklahoma, and is now making her home at 282 Lawrence road, in Medford. For a number of years Mrs. Koch has been a supervisor of children's social activities. She taught dancing at Oklahoma for more than 20 years, conducting her children's dancing parties at Tulsa in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Maye. Interesting in connection with this was the fact that she drove alone from Boston to Oklahoma seven different times in order to carry on her dancing classes. She is the founder and director of Camp Vebynin at East Lempster, New Hampshire.

The next party will be held in the white and gold ballroom of the Medford Armory, Feb. 3. Mrs. Koch was privileged to open this ballroom after closing of several years. In the series of six parties there will be a Costume Party, a Valentine Party and an Innovation Party.

Little Miss Phyllis Allayne Anderson had the honor of being the youngest child in attendance. She will not be two years old until February. Children were present from Belmont, Medford, Winchester, Malden, Somerville, and Arlington. They included:

Second Play At Plymouth Theatre

There is magic in the names of stellar magnitude connected with "Mademoiselle," M. Deval's smart New York-Paris success, which will bring Grace George and Alice Brady as co-stars to the Plymouth Theatre, for two weeks' engagement commencing this evening, January 23rd, "Mademoiselle," one of the outstanding attractions of the present New York season will be presented in Boston with its New York cast intact.

Jacques Deval, the distinguished French novelist and author of "Mademoiselle" is known to American theatregoers for his comedy "Her Carboard Lover," which proved so great an attraction on stage and screen both here and abroad. Grace George, one of the most distinguished American actresses and adapter of "Mademoiselle," has been identified with "The First Mrs. Fraser," "Divorçons," "The Ruined Lady," and "She Had To Know." Alice Brady, doubtless the most versatile young star on the American stage today, is remembered for her equally fine work on the screen, in comedy, light opera and drama, recently crowned by her splendid creation of "Lavinia" in Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra." A. E. Matthews, the popular English actor, will be pleasantly recalled in "The First Mrs. Fraser," "Spring Cleaning," "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," "Interference" and "Bulldog Drummond."

And while we are naming names, it may be mentioned that William A. Brady, the veteran producer of many Broadway successes, is sponsoring the production of "Mademoiselle," for which Livingston Platt, the noted stage decorator, has supplied a charming scenic background and Clarence Derwent the stage director.

The very title of the play itself has become internationally famous on the continent due to its long runs in Paris and Vienna, where in the latter city Max Reinhardt produced the piece. There is a universal appeal in the theme of this play, a comedy-drama of genuine substance, firmly rooted in character, and bringing a delightful new group of acquaintances of whom you will go home and talk after they've given you an evening of pleasure.

The Boston engagement of "Mademoiselle" will be played under the auspices of the American Theatre Society.

BRAY CLUB ATHLETIC NIGHT AND ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAM TOMORROW NIGHT

Joe Wellington Will Be Master of Ceremonies — Fine Entertainers And Speakers Will Be Present — Clifford and Dorothy Brown, Young Adagio Dancers, On Program—Boxing and Wrestling Bouts—Hot Fight Expected Between Wesley LeBert and Charlie Polcaro

Starting at 8 o'clock sharp tomorrow night at the Roberts Jr. High auditorium, with Alderman Joe Wellington of West Medford acting as master of ceremonies, the Alderman John J. Bray club will present its money making athletic night and evening of entertainment in aid of the worthy fund in process to assist in the expenses of injured Bray club football players, some of whom were seriously hurt in the club's last game of the season with the North Dorchester A. C.

The program, featuring many football and athletic experts and coaches around Greater Boston, prominent newspapermen, boxing and wrestling bouts, dancers, singers and comedians, is a long one and the affair, at least at the outset, is certain of success.

Good Bouts
Among the fighters who will scrap are Tony Marshall vs. Bill Delphin, Eddie McCarthy vs. Tommy Lowry, Mickey Sears vs. Laddie Lee, Bill Brisco vs. Jack Pearl, Rex Noyes vs. Honey Melody. The final bout is of interest to Medford people and particularly to members of the Medford Tigers and the North Medford club. In this battle Wesley LeBert of North Medford will take on Charlie Polcaro of the Tigers. This scrap should be a real one with plenty of glove flinging. Mickey Brown, former bantamweight titlist, will referee all boxing bouts.

The program of speakers is headed by Brother Gilbert which also includes Congressman-elect Arthur D. Healey, Tom McCabe, sports writer; Swede Nelson of Harvard, Leo Daley of Boston Latin school, Bill Orenberger of Boston English high school, Fred Ostergren, football coach at Arlington High, and Tom Keedy of Leigh.

The committee in charge of the athletic night has rounded up one of the classiest lists of entertainers ever to appear in Medford for some time. Of particular interest will be the adagio dance of Dorothy and Clifford Browne of this city's youngest entertainers in New England. The Turcotte School of Dancing will present an attractive floor show of the genuine type. Among his students Mr. Turcotte boasts a fine collection of versatile dancers and entertainers most of whom will be participants in the floor presentation.

Dancers and Singers
The Meuse Trio, dancing and singing team, O'Leary's Minstrels, buck and wing and clog dancers, the Medford Post, American Legion Trio, headed by "Charlie Doherty, Jack Murphy, father of John Murphy, who cavorted as leader of the Medford High band a few seasons back, will give an exhibition of baton swinging and twirling. Joe English dumb-bell artist, Ted Lewis, Jr., singer and comedian, Jack Johnson, frisco dance specialist who has appeared at many Medford smoke talks and entertainments, Joe Belle and his ukelele, former master of ceremonies at the "Brown Derby," Ray Doherty of South Medford, popular song specialist, Shy Donahue of Malden, are just a few of those who will entertain in aid of the Bray club's worthy cause.

A collection of some 12 Tufts college wrestlers under the direction of Coach Sam Ruggiero have promised to demonstrate many of the difficult holds and locks of the sport.

A member of the committee will make an address of welcome and then Joe Wellington will conduct the long and unusually attractive list of events.

Although the affair might appeal more to men, many Medford women sports followers are expected to be present.

He is a sophomore at Medford High.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN MEDFORD SPORTS DURING COMING WEEK

WEEK'S EVENTS
MONDAY
Medford High hockey sextet scheduled to play Belmont at Belmont. If the game can not be played on Monday it will be played Tuesday, if there is ice.

WEDNESDAY
Company E basketball team plays Keith Oil Corp. quintet at Medford Armory. Second team will play Medford All Stars. First game will start at 7.30.

FRIDAY
Medford High hockey team plays Newton at Boston Garden 7.30 p. m.

SATURDAY
Malden High basketball team will visit the Medford High court. This game was originally scheduled for Friday but has been shifted to Saturday. Seconds will also play. Starts at 7.30 p. m. The Blue and White tracksters will be a strong entry in the annual Northeastern Interscholastics at Boston starting at 2 p. m.

All three High School winter athletic teams are scheduled to again see action this week opposing some excellent competition. Today an outdoor League game is booked for the hockey sextet. The weather man reports that the stormy weather over Sunday will probably follow another day or two, hence it is highly improbable that the game listed for today or tomorrow will be played, at least for a while. The squad is highly elated over the one-point victory over Stoneham at the Garden Saturday and possesses high hopes for another win Friday night at the Garden over Newton High. Newton has a right smart outfit and it will take everything the Blue and White skaters have to outscore the Garden City puck chasers.

Malden Heds Saturday
Medford-Malden rivalry will again renew itself this week when the court fives come together on Saturday night at the Medford High gym, starting at 7.30. This was an engagement set for Friday night but will be played Saturday evening instead. Last week the track team overpowered the Malden runners and jumpers in a triangle week with Everett High at the Boston Y; now it is up to the basketball squad to add its bit to make up for the Thanksgiving Day football crackup. This is the only High School basketball game for the week.

The local track boys' pronounced defeat of Malden and Everett in track last Friday at Boston makes the Medford men logical contenders for first honors in the Northeastern Interscholastics to be held on Saturday. With the return of Leon Gings to the squad today things become even brighter for a Blue and White annexation of the Northeastern title. Capt. Eddie Kozowyk, Eddie Howard, the relay four, Ralph Webster, Ray Henderson, Bob Bolivar, Arthur Bimbo, Gary Famiglietti, and in fact the entire squad is expected to contribute points that will make this Northeastern Interscholastic possible.

The appearance of Coach Eddie Pidgeon at the triangular week Friday was a great help, although he did not act in his official capacity, preferring that Arthur Noble handle the squad. Pidgeon's presence gave the youngsters the necessary confidence to bring home the bacon.

Company E Opponents
Manager Joe Reardon at the Armory announces that his fast five are in for a hard game Wednesday night. Company E will face the smart Keith Oil five of Brockton in the main game of a double bill. The second team is slated to stack up against the Medford All Stars who, it is understood, will boast many former Medford High star basketballers.

North Medford came fast in the second half last week but lacked the power to upset the Armory clan. Despite their defeat, though, North Medford five has a collection due to come after a few fast games. Bobby Morison with Chris Sarno, Hack Walsh and John MacLean shape up well.

Besides the above mentioned list of doings the Paleface A. C., the Celtics, the Tiger Seconds, the South Medford Cubs and many of the other junior basketball teams of the city are billed to be active during the next few days.

THOMPSON JUNIOR CLUB

The A. Beatrice Thompson Junior club 9, met on Thursday in Moose hall. A special meeting will be held on date to be announced for the election of officers. These officers will be installed on Feb. 2nd, and all members of the Relief corps will be invited to attend.

—Tonight the officials of the Men's club of First Methodist church will meet at the Rankin class room at 7.45.

MEDFORD HOCKEY SEXTET REGISTERS SECOND LEAGUE WIN, WHIPS STONEHAM

Coach Al Lang's Boys Superior To Opponents Throughout But Go Scoreless In First Period — Chipman Counters In Second Stanza Followed By Two Muench Shots — Stoneham Stages Fast Attack In The Fourth But Paul Kenney's Great Saves Deny A Tie

Staving off a last period Stoneham rush and playing far superior hockey than they have displayed in the three previous games of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey League, the Medford High hockey sextet waltzed away with an impressive game at the Boston Garden Saturday afternoon to the tune of 3-2.

For two full periods the stout-hearted and blue-shirted Medford skaters toyed with the prison-striped Stoneham icemen. The Lang-coached gang outskated, out-stickhandled and out-smarted their more cautious opponents in the first of the three periods but were unsuccessful in driving the rubber disc past Ken Prescott, Stoneham goalie until the second period.

Bob Chipman, in combination with Eddie Riley and Muench, was thrice in position to counter in the first stanza, but failed to beat Prescott.

Capt. Chippie Tallies
It was not until after three minutes of the third period elapsed when Capt. Chippie took to puck beyond the blue line, sifted through the two-man Stoneham defense and whipped a terrific backhander that rested in the strings.

Muench, despite Chippie's great work, was the big fire in the Medford offensive gun. Taking a rebound off the board after a close scrimmage near the Stoneham net Muench found Prescott off balance and made the Medford count two. Just 45 seconds later, Stoneham with a man in the pen, Muench outguessed the defense and tricked Prescott again.

About halfway in the third stanza Billy Hook, Bill Kearins and Dick Gross were sent back into the fray in Stoneham's last effort to recover. Paul Kenney made some great saves in the three final Stoneham surges on the Medford goal but he was beaten by Vin Devaney on a shot from scrimmage.

The Stoneham line again swept down the lane, with only about two minutes to play. Gross dribbled and stickhandled through the waiting Medford defense line and passed out to Hook whose shot blasted by Kenney. The summary:
